

HUMAN RIGHTS
in AUSTRALIA

Staff Writer

Synopsis

- Staff writers are responsible for developing Right Now's regular and timely coverage of human rights on the ground. This role involves covering rallies, protests, talks, festivals (such as HRAFF and MWF) conferences (such as Progress) or any other events centred on or related to human rights.

Regular Tasks

- Covering events, research and human rights developments on assignment
- Conducting interviews and writing profiles featuring human rights activists, lawyers, academics and changemakers
- Liaising regularly with the Managing Editor and Editor-In-Chief on coverage assignments
- Responsible for contributing two pieces to Right Now every four months